The storm came from the northwest, and passed over a strip of country about 300 yards wide in a southeasterly direction.

The tornado was accompanied by vivid lightning and heavy hail storm. Country homes and church buildings were wrecked in several localities, the most serious being at Pleasant, Titus county. The noon services had just closed and the people were just leaving when the wind struck the building.

One man was killed and three injured near Dublin.

It is reported that several were killed six miles southeast of Stephenville, but the rumor has not yet been confirmed. Trees and crops in the wake of the storm are reported to be completely destroyed, but authentic details of the disaster have not been received. It is also said that several people were killed and injured in the country through which the storm passed.

The fire department was the only force on hand to cope with the flames. Incendiaryism is given as the origin of the fire and this theory is emphasized by the recent destruction of the Roby track under mysterious circumstances.

Miss Mary Eliza Calvert has just returned home from a visit of several days with Miss Lizzie Clay Stone.

Mr. Marcella Tolle, just out after a spell of sickness, was able to visit the family of Mr. H. C. Stone on Sunday in company with Mrs. Charles Calvert.

Tobacco plants are plentiful and are now waiting for a season to be transplanted. None set yet. About the usual crop is expected to be put out.

To satisfy many inquiries we will state that notwithstanding a considerable delay after obtaining the license, Mr. Howard Farwell and Miss Ann Eliza Wainwright are actually married and seem happily engaged in their daily pursuits.

In memory of Helen Wainwright, a dear mother in Israel, for the sake of her children, brethren in the Church and many friends who mourn her loss, we wish to record her name as a believer in God and a follower of Jesus. During the years of her membership she has steadily, firmly and tenaciously held to and contended for the doctrine that "None but Jesus, none but Jesus can do helpless sinners good," and that the extension of God's mercy and grace through Him is only by belief in Him, and that to contend for and contend for Christ on the basis of God. Ever mindful of the commandments and precepts, exhortations and promises, she was not found wanting in patience to endure the trials, sorrows, conflicts and sufferings that are decreed to the saints in this life, and had a mind to joy in it as a preparation for her eternal gain. Such was manifested in her orderly ways and bodily conversation and sealed in her dying words "I have a bright home now," evidently a glorious transition from the world of sin, sorrow, sorrow, pain and death to a realm of joy, peace and bliss—"A bright home," where she may ever look in the light of the countenance of God, for it is said of such "Precious in the sight is the death of the saints." She remained while living that she would be satisfied if when the time came she would be satisfied to go, realizing the promise of God that He "would make them willing in the day of His power." Trusting in faith to the end that she might be able to say like Paul, "I have fought a good fight, I have finished the race."
